Hola Amigos:

On September 22, we had our Kentucky Chapter ACC annual meeting in conjunction with the KMA convention. We had roughly 50 physicians participate that morning. Several of the attendees commented that they truly enjoyed the program and that the faculty was outstanding. We had Dr. Frank Cetta from the Mayo Clinic and Dr. William Miles from the University of Florida. Our local faculty included Dr. John Gurley and Dr. Marcus Stoddard who had quite a thrilling debate on PFO closure. Dr. Anil Attili gave us an extensive review of cardiac MRI. Our national ACC guest was Dr. Dick Kovacs who is the chair of our Board of Governors. Dr. David Moliterno received a recognition award as our immediate past Governor. This year we had many fellows-in-training and a resident-in-training. Two of them received recognition awards for their poster presentations and the quality of their research. We are already planning for our next annual meeting, which will be on October 22, 2011 from 10:00 am to 5:30 pm in Lexington. Please mark your calendars. We will have a very special guest speaker who remains anonymous, but I assure you that you do not want to miss this event.

Our chapter has been busy. We just came back from the annual ACC Legislative Conference. This year we had quite a big group including Drs. Bert Mercer, Vaughn Payne, Patricia Grodicki, Sanjay Patil and fellow-in-training Matthew Wiisanen. In addition we had our new council Practice Administrator, Christine McIntyre-RN, and our Executive Director, Jennifer Rzepka. We met with eight legislators including Senate Leaders and District Congressmen. Dr. Vaughn Payne and I received PAC recognition awards during the dinner reception.

Our chapter was instrumental in the formation of a coalition of several professional organizations to deal with childhood obesity and a smoke-free state. We have met several times with AHA, AAP, AFP, KMA, GLMS, Kentucky Youth Advocates, Tobacco-Free Kids, Department of Health and YMCA representatives. We are under preparation for our first legislative date, which will be on February 9, 2011 in Frankfort. Several cardiologists have volunteered to participate in the "Cardiologists-for-a-Day" program including Dr. Alison Bailey, Dr. Ken Gibbs, Dr. Jesse Adams and Dr. James Gwinn. During this year I have met or contacted multiple legislators and executive branch members to deal with CMS cuts, SGR, and TORT reform.

As you can see our chapter members are getting more involved. We mean business. We need to remain united to deal with challenging issues including new precertification requirements, quality reports, practice overhead expenses, TORT and healthcare reform. If you are interested in helping our chapter you may contact me at: juanvillaf@yahoo.com.

Obesity, especially childhood obesity, is a “huge” problem these days, putting Kentucky where we don’t want to be. Kentucky ranks seventh for adults and third for children in the national obesity epidemic. Two out of three adults and one of three children in Kentucky are considered overweight or obese.

Carrying excess weight presents many health problems, including diabetes mellitus, hypertension, vascular disease, degenerative joint disease and cancer.

Perhaps not so obvious, but important nonetheless, are the social, emotional and mental problems associated with obesity. Teachers, psychologists and social workers report higher rates of bullying, low self-esteem, depression, under-achievement and poor academic performance in overweight and obese children. Obese children are at increased risk of becoming obese parents who will raise another generation of obese children.

Our society, as we know it, is in jeopardy because of our unhealthy lifestyles.

What can we do?

What can we do, as healthcare providers and leaders? First, we can lead by example, adopting healthy lifestyles for ourselves and our families. Then, we can get involved by supporting Kentucky policies, school-based efforts and community programs that fight obesity.

The Partnership for a Fit Kentucky encourages health advocates, policy makers and engaged citizens to:

1. Increase physical activity and physical education in schools.
2. Establish a Body Mass Index (BMI) surveillance system for youth.
3. Support breastfeeding in the workplace.
4. Require standards for nutrition and physical activity in licensed child care centers.
5. Establish complete streets policies to make walking and biking safe.
6. Require menu labeling at fast food and chain restaurants.
7. Require healthy food in state agencies.
8. Provide incentives for worksite wellness.

You can also help by supporting our Kentucky Chapter of the American College of Cardiology, which is working on this problem in a variety of ways through other statewide organizations and local efforts.

Over time, as lifestyles changed, we as a society adopted bad habits. Now, we must make the individual and collective efforts needed to reverse the damage and set our course for a healthier future.

There is a “one stop shop” for you to get all the information you need to protect the interests of your practice! Symposium participants will have the opportunity to hear from experts on these topics and learn from colleagues’ experiences through case study presentations. The collective knowledge and experience of the presenters will help you make the right decisions for your practice. In addition to case studies, participants will also gain insight into the economic trends affecting practices; learn more about the practical details of an integration deal; find out what happens once a deal is complete; and learn how to protect themselves in the event the deal goes wrong.

Crunch Time!

Colleagues,

We are approaching the final weeks before election day and slowly but surely the ACC PAC is approaching our $1 million goal for this two-year cycle. However, in the past three months alone the ACC PAC has fulfilled over 60 requests for members to deliver PAC checks at in-district meetings. This coupled with our regularly scheduled disbursements has us in a predicament – we're running out of money!

I need your help at this time to further the advocacy efforts of the American College of Cardiology. Our assistance to campaigns at this critical time for the candidates is valuable in cementing relationships that will allow our views on the SGR and cardiology's initiatives to be heard in both the lame duck session in 2010 and during the opening deliberations of the new Congress in 2011. The voice of the American voters in this election will give us many opportunities to be at the table on many issues vital to our practices, our academic centers, and more importantly to our patients. If you have already contributed this year, please consider making another donation of any amount at this time. If you have not yet donated, I personally urge you to join your colleagues who have understood the value of our advocacy efforts. Please consider reaching out to your practice and chapter colleagues via email or phone and asking for any spare change they have to help the PAC support those in need of help before the election. You can utilize the attached printable/faxable/emailable contribution form for yourself or forward it to your colleagues. You or they can sign in online at www.accpacweb.org to contribute as well.

Dr. Juan Villafañe and Dr. Vaughn Payne received PAC recognition awards during the dinner reception at the ACC Legislative Conference in Washington, D.C.

Those of us involved in cardiovascular care over the past year understand more than most about the inability to operate a business in the red. Please be a part of the 2010 political process and help YOUR ACC by contributing or assisting us in getting others to contribute to the ACC PAC at this critical time for cardiology and our patients. Your help and leadership in this final stretch is greatly appreciated.

If you have any questions or comments, please feel free to contact me. Please feel free to copy, paste or forward this letter during the final days of this crucial election.

M. Eugene Sherman, MD FACC

*Vice-Chair
ACC PAC*

It's Easy to Contribute
